Equipment Breakdown Insurance

Keeping your business running smoothly

It's not only manufacturing processes which are getting increasingly sophisticated – buildings are becoming increasingly reliant on complex and advanced systems for heating, power, lighting and ventilation. From production equipment and machinery, to electrical appliances and building systems, businesses rely on their continuous and constant running to deliver consistent service to their customers. But when equipment breaks down – whether it's part of the manufacturing process or the building's mechanical or electrical systems – the result can be a real problem. The costs to a business can be high, not just from the replacement or unplanned maintenance of the equipment, but from the business interruption and possible loss of customers or profits.

Equipment breakdown coverage from the Axis Insurance Group is a specific type of property insurance which has been created to mitigate financial losses caused by accidental breakdown to named pieces of equipment. Although large utility companies and manufacturers typically have this kind of coverage in place, small businesses should also have a policy in place. Nearly every company – large or small – has a substantial investment in equipment, and having the right insurance in place will give you the peace of mind that you're protected in the event of a vital piece of machinery or building service breaking down.

Accidents can be caused by mechanical breakdown, electrical arcing, power surges, burning, cracking, bulging, explosion, implosion, or centrifugal force. However, all these events are excluded from standard property insurance. That's why it's important to have an equipment breakdown insurance policy in place. You can also consider adding business interruption (loss of profits) insurance which will reimburse you for loss of profits and/or continuing expenses suffered as a result of an equipment breakdown accident, until business sales can be resumed to the level they were at prior to the loss.

Axis Insurance will create a tailor-made equipment breakdown policy, whatever the size or type of your business. Our expert consultants will ensure that you have sufficient coverage that will deliver what you need, when you need it. And if you are unlucky enough to suffer an equipment breakdown, we'll work with you to make sure your claim is settled satisfactorily, and your business is up and running again as quickly as possible.
